HMO Licence

The home has been used as a HMO with assured shorthold tenancy agreements, with the current owners having a HMO licence in place with the local authority, therefore proving deemed consent as a HMO for the purpose of article 4. The new owners will have to apply for the HMO licence in their names, but are able to provide evidence for deemed consent for the process.

Images taken before full occupation of the home, the home is currently fully occupied, therefore an internal viewing is essential for a proposed buyer to satisfy themselves as to the internal condition before purchase. The images alone cannot be relied upon. Draft details awaiting vendor approval and subject to change.
