LOCATION

ACCOMMODATION

The property is an interesting & substantial detached period built residence dating back to the early Victorian period, circa 1840 & having an interesting history comprising the original Mannamead school & owning all the land surrounding, having now sold off the land. This spacious home having in excess of 3,000 square feet of accommodation.

Mentioned in Chris Robinsons publication - 'Plymouth College the First 100 Years' with a sketched photograph dated 1878, the property virtually isolated with Emmanuel church. Owned by 3 families over the last 100 years. The previous owner being Dr Neville Seymour a surgeon.

The current owners undertook a 3 year comprehensive program of upgrading, improving & refurbishment circa 2006/2009. Major works including re-wiring, re-plumbing, damp proof works, all new fittings with gas laid on for a pressurised heating system & solar panels, providing for an energy efficient home.

GROUND FLOOR

A porch gives access to the spacious reception hall and wide shallow tread staircase rising & turning to the 1st floor. Under-stairs storage cupboards, here with hatch & access ladder that potentially can lead down to the lower ground floor accommodation. A 27ft large sitting room/dining room with fireplace to one end, cast iron fireback with open grate. Double sets of french doors opening to the southerly facing colonnade with veranda overlooking the front garden. Archway connecting to the large kitchen/breakfast room, quality fitted. A central island incorporating an under-mounted sink with mixer tap & Neff dishwasher, other Neff integrated appliances including a dual oven/grill, five ring gas hob & fridge. A spacious utility room with sink & excellent storage. Also on the ground floor a study, cloakroom & downstairs wc.
