A place to call home

A community with landscape at its heart

PROMENADE PARK IN MALDON, ESSEX

A rural retreat

The natural landscape is at the heart of Westcombe Park. Green spaces will be built into the environment, offering plenty of places to relax, enjoy a stroll or let the kids work off some steam.

Heybridge Wood has been in existence for at least four centuries and will be preserved at the centre of the community. As well as forming a natural centrepiece for the development, this ancient woodland will remain an important habitat for wildlife and biodiversity. A network of trails through the wood are perfect for exploring and allowing the whole family to get close to nature.

A sweeping, central, tree-lined avenue provides easy access to all parts of the village, while footpaths and cycleways link the areas of green space. Mature trees and hedgerows give the community an established feel, creating a sense of exclusivity and seclusion.

With outdoor sports pitches and a proposed pavilion for community use, you can make regular sporting activities part of your lifestyle. Children and parents will love the safe, secure play areas and the community allotments that enable all generations to share the pleasure of getting green-fingered and growing fresh produce.

Creating shared spaces

Westcombe Park is much more than a place to live. With a range of facilities available on the doorstep, there are plenty of opportunities to get together with other residents and feel part of a community.

A proposed new neighbourhood centre will become the focal point for the village, providing a social hub, space for retail outlets and space for a new medical centre (should it be required). The perfect place to catch up with friends and neighbours, enjoying a coffee and a chat, as well as being a convenient location for activities, club meetings, community events and celebrations.

Westcombe Park has been designed with everyone in mind, but particularly growing families. Land has been set aside within the village for a proposed new primary school and nursery.
