This charming property, dating back to 1919, presents a rare opportunity to reunite what was once a single, detached residence (STP), now divided into two semi-detached homes by the current owners. Copper Beech and Whinfields, each exuding their own unique character with original wood doors, cornices, and dado rails, offer spacious and versatile accommodation set amidst the picturesque village of Ewhurst.

Copper Beech, occupying the front half of the original property, offers an extended layout over two floors. The bright and airy interior features a triple aspect sitting room with French doors, an expansive open-plan kitchen/dining room with underfloor heating, and a versatile office/family room or bedroom. Upstairs, two double bedrooms enjoy built-in cupboards and rear views, with a family/playroom leading to the principal bedroom boasting an ensuite bathroom and additional eaves storage.

Whinfields boasts a self-contained studio annex and detached double garage, complemented by a lovely rural outlook. Its interior showcases laminate wood effect flooring, a spacious kitchen/diner with a gas hob and fitted appliances, and a cosy sitting room with a fireplace and French doors opening onto a raised decked balcony. Two generously sized double bedrooms, a bathroom, and a walk-in cloaks cupboard complete the accommodation, while the impressive garden features a wooden pergola and decked seating area. Combining these two semi-detached homes back into one detached residence would create a remarkable property, blending charm with modern comforts and providing ample space for family living, entertaining, and enjoying the surrounding countryside.
