 1187 m²
 € 2.550.000

This magnificent villa keeps you in the shade in summer and in the sunshine in winter. The house for enjoying the outdoors all year. The concept ensures optimal, efficient energy management whatever the season. The home adapts to its natural surroundings which, coupled with the native landscape design, create an effective symbiosis between the house and its environs for maximum comfort. Photovoltaic panels capture solar energy and transform it into electricity, while geothermal probes exchange energy with the deep, temperature stable layer throughout the year, boosting the performance of other exchanges systems such as aerothermal energy and for low maintenance and incredible durability.
