Whiting Bay is situated on the southeastern corner of the Isle of Arran, overlooking the Firth of Clyde and offering views of the southern tip of Scotland. The village has a newsagent, post office, pharmacy, two general food stores, a cafe/bar, a restaurant, a bistro, a hardware store, and a farm shop. Additionally, there is a craft outlet, art gallery, and a picturesque 18-hole golf course. Primary schooling is available in the village, while secondary schooling can be found at the High School in Lamlash. The surrounding area is home to some of Arran's most scenic walks, along the shoreline and through the forest to Glenashdale Falls. The Isle of Arran, covering approximately 167 square miles, is often referred to as "Scotland in miniature" because it is divided into highland and lowland areas by the Highland Boundary Fault. The island is a popular destination for geologists due to substantial volcanic activity around 16 million years ago in the Tertiary period. There are numerous stone circles and standing stones dating from Neolithic times, including those on Machrie Moor and the Giants Graves above Whiting Bay. Arran is around 60 miles in circumference and boasts some of the finest scenery in Scotland, offering excellent walking, rambling, and sea and trout fishing opportunities. Tourist attractions include Arran Aromatics, Arran Heritage Museum, Lochranza Distillery, and Brodick Castle. The island also features seven golf courses, with 'Cooper Angus Park' offering easy access to Whiting Bay Golf Club.
