INTRODUCTION

Whilst location at the end of Britain's oldest long distance walkway is publicity itself, The Border Hotel is a 3-star traditional village hotel, dating in part from 1750, and overlooks the village Green in the small Borders village of Kirk Yetholm, a Conservation Area. The village is situated amongst the beautiful rolling countryside of the Scottish Border hills: is on the St Cuthbert's Way (a 62-mile walk from Melrose to Lindisfarne); close to Kelso and is a little over 1 hour's drive from Edinburgh.

The Border Hotel has 7 letting bedrooms, with 2 rooms let as a 2-bedroom apartment with living room and kitchenette. For a new owner, if need be, there is the opportunity to reinstate the apartment as a private flat. As well as the wonderful letting bedrooms, The Border Hotel offers its guests, visitors and locals alike, a plethora of areas to relax and socialise, with its bar, restaurant, function room and outdoor terrace.

The current owners of The Border Hotel, who have a long, well-loved, history with both the hotel and the village of Kirk Yetholm, have decided to pass on this wonderful opportunity to new owners to acquire an established, popular and well-known village inn/hotel.
