IF YOU LIVED HERE...

You'll enter for a broad hallway with clean lines, neutral tones and sleek engineered timber underfoot. The open-plan living area and kitchen totals more than 300 square feet. Light, airy and ideal for entertaining. A sleek crisp grey kitchen suite runs along one wall, with integrated appliances, glossy cabinets and wraparound worktops. Elsewhere, French doors opens onto your substantial south facing balcony. Timber decked and more than twenty feet, it's perfect for summer evenings and potted greenery.

Your principal sleeper is a generous double with floor to ceiling windows and a pristine en suite shower room, bright and pristine in flawless white metro tiles. The second bedroom is another bright double, while across the hall you have your family bathroom. This is another sleek affair with a full sized tub below a rainfall shower, all finished, as throughout, to a clean, contemporary spec.

Your new home sits in the heart of Fish Island, Hackney's former warehouse district home to some truly impressive heritage architecture. You're just a short stroll from the overground rail connections of Hackney Wick, with trains running from Stratford to Richmond. The cultural centrepiece of Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park is practically on your doorstep, while legendary Victoria Park with its famous boating lake is less than ten minutes away.

WHAT ELSE?

- London Stadium is on your doorstep, with a wide range of sporting and events for to dash out and catch.
- There's plenty of extra, substantial storage in the hallway. An always welcome bonus in London apartment living.
- You've got a huge variety of new bars and restaurants to explore within an easy stroll, but the burgers at Two More years, just three minutes away from your new front door, are well worth checking out.
