You'd appreciate the stylish combination of vintage and contemporary features and the logical layout, including sash windows, wood floors, exposed brickwork, and modern fixtures and fittings. From the moment you come into the apartment through the first floor front door, you'd notice the sense of space and light. The apartment has windows on two sides thanks to its end of terrace location.

The stunning focal point of the room is the exposed brick chimney breast.

The bathroom is delightful, with monochrome metro wall tiles, patterned floor tiles, and a large modern shower enclosure. There's also a WC and a spa-style washbasin perched on a vintage freestanding cupboard. An opening window provides natural light and ventilation. The property has gas central heating and has white and pale grey walls that give it a calm coherence and welcoming ambience.
