Located in a quiet cul-de-sac, within easy reach of the town centre, this charming four-bedroom dormer bungalow offers a perfect blend of privacy and convenience, whilst also providing the option for versatile living. With a spacious garden and large decking, this property promises a tranquil outdoor setting ideal for relaxing or entertaining. Large windows throughout the property flood the home with natural light throughout the day, while sliding French doors allow access to the rear garden. A large driveway and attached garage provide ample space for parking, making it perfect for families or those who appreciate a bit of extra room for guests with potential for further development, maybe even a separate dwelling. Viewings are highly recommended.

Located just a ten-minute walk from the heart of town and the train station, and just 5 minutes from the beach as well as the local primary and secondary schools, this home combines the charm of a serene neighbourhood with easy access to shops, cafés, and amenities, making it a rare find for a family seeking the best of both worlds.

The property also had a previous planning application accepted to build an extension, although work never went ahead. This means, however, that there is the potential to develop with either an extension or an entirely separate annex to the side of the building.

The side garden is the area that previously had planning permission. That permission extended from the property itself, all the way to the boundary of the property, meaning there is LOTS of room for potential building to be done.
