

The background is a vibrant, abstract composition of flowing, organic shapes in shades of purple, magenta, and orange, set against a dark, almost black background. The colors blend and swirl together, creating a sense of movement and depth. A white rectangular frame is centered in the middle of the image, containing the text.

Located in one of London's largest and most exciting urban regeneration areas, The Perfume Factory provides the perfect base to live life to the fullest – first-time visitors can't help to notice just how conveniently located it is, with North Acton Underground Station a two-minute walk away, and an Elizabeth Line Station in close proximity, both providing fast connections into the heart of the capital in under 30 minutes.

That so many delights are within easy reach is only the beginning. START YOUR JOURNEY

The Perfume Factory is built on the site of the former Elizabeth Arden factory, in what used to be London's industrial western side, which is fast changing to reflect the area's redevelopment. A community is already building in the immediate location, supporting a Tesco Metro and Sainsbury's Local, as well as the Fu Lai Chinese Supermarket. And with such excellent transport links, it really does feel like so many of the capital's iconic experiences are practically on your doorstep, and when Old Oak Common Station (which will be the largest in the UK) is completed, just a fifteen-minute walk away, the rest of the country will become one step closer too. This transport super-hub will connect high-speed rail services to the Midland, the North and Scotland, complementing the excellent links to Central London and Heathrow on the Elizabeth Line. Connectivity also brings a wide variety of outdoor activities into everyday play, across numerous, highly accessible green spaces.

Having so many things within easy reach just adds to the appeal of The Perfume Factory. A unique stand-alone red portal arch sets the tone for the development – a stylish, carefully considered, well-balanced living experience inside and out. There's communal outdoor space at street level and a substantial formal play area for children. Apartments feature well-considered layouts with contemporary designs and high-quality fixtures and fittings, such as Nordic Oak Wood Effect floors and mirrored fitted wardrobes in the master bedrooms. Roller blinds on all windows allow you to bathe in glorious light or set the scene for the perfect movie night. All kitchens come with beautiful stone worktops, denim blue handleless, edged doors, and state-of-the-art, Bosch appliances. All homes also come with a private balcony. The Perfume Factory offers the perfect balance of convenience, comfort and style.

IN WEST LONDON

AN AREA ON THE MOVE

North Acton's rich industrial past had a creative side. As it is just two stops on the Central Line from White City and the former BBC Television Centre, North Acton was home for many years of the BBC Television Rehearsal Rooms, a complex so large and buzzing that it was dubbed the "Acton Hilton". Although closed in 2009, this creative heritage has carried over to the approach to the £26 billion Old Oak and Park Royal development, within which The Perfume Factory sits. This is a hugely ambitious project to rejuvenate the areas surrounding Acton, consisting of new amenities, shops, parks and public spaces and enough industry to cater for 65,000 new jobs. Set to rival Canary Wharf, this redevelopment will be home to the only station where the Elizabeth Line and the HS2 intersect, making North Acton one of the best-connected locations in all of England.

SO MUCH WITHIN EASY REACH

With excellent connections to the capital and the west through North Acton Underground Station and Acton Main Line Crossrail Station, so many iconic London experiences are well within easy reach. To the east is legendary Portobello Road, home to one of the world's largest antique, bric-a-brac and vintage markets as well as incredible street food from around the globe. Thirteen minutes in the other direction brings you to Westfield London, with around 280 stores focusing on popular high street and high-end brands, complemented by a seemingly endless choice of food offers and a twenty-screen cinema.

Eleven minutes west is Ealing Broadway, The Perfume Factory's local shopping, dining and socialising hub, with its vibrant high street and excellent markets (don't miss the French Market and Ealing Vegan Fiesta, held periodically throughout the year). Marble Arch, the gateway to both Oxford Street's shopping district and the famous middle eastern food of Edgware Road, is twenty minutes by tube. For a great dinner and a world-class show, stay on the line for ten more minutes and you've reached the West End and Chinatown. And The Perfume Factory is ideally situated for holiday goers and business travellers alike – thanks to Crossrail you can be at Heathrow Airport just under 40 minutes from your front door.
