Description

Located in the heart of Penrith town centre is a fantastic development opportunity! Formerly the BBC Club, this central site has planning permission granted for an extra care residential scheme consisting of 28 individual units arranged over three floors, with the majority of the units being one bedroom and some two bedroom with communal areas. Planning permission was granted in 2014 with conditions discharged in 2017, making the permission extant.

This site sits just a stones throw from the popular New Squares area of the town and is close to the large array of local amenities that Penrith offers including shops, pubs, restaurants, cafes, schools, leisure facilities, doctors surgery, hospital and a train station.

Penrith has easy access to the M6, A66 and the Lake District National Park is just a short drive away.
