This is a rare opportunity to acquire a mixed-use property in a prime Stretford location combining an active commercial ground-floor unit with a privately-let, three-bedroom apartment above, ideal for an owner-occupier investor looking for both rental income and high street frontage. The commercial premises benefits from excellent visibility on a busy arterial route that links Manchester city centre with Trafford and beyond. The heavy flow of traffic along this road — including frequent matchday crowds — ensures strong passing trade and footfall, giving the ground-floor space excellent potential for retail, café, salon or service-based business. The upstairs 3-bedroom flat is already tenanted, delivering a steady income stream, and offers a private residential space set above the bustle of the retail zone. Location is a major selling point. On foot or by short tram ride you are very close to a major sporting and events venue — meaning surge footfall on match days, concert nights or stadium events. Public transport links are superb: regular light-rail services connect the area to Manchester city centre in a matter of minutes, and several nearby tram stops give easy access across Greater Manchester. Convenience for everyday living or a business could hardly be better. Within a short distance you have major retail parks offering supermarkets and high-street shops — including large food stores and discount retailers — plus local amenities for shopping, dining and errands. In short: this is a versatile, income-producing mixed-use property in a hot location — combining residential stability with commercial potential, excellent transport links and the bonus of being within walking or easy tra
