HISTORY

Poplar, London is a historic East End district in Tower Hamlets, known for its rich character and strong local identity. Once a small riverside hamlet, it grew rapidly with the expansion of the East and West India Docks, becoming a key centre for maritime trade. Today, Poplar is undergoing major regeneration, blending its industrial heritage with modern living and vibrant new developments near Canary Wharf and the Docklands.

Chrisp Street Market is a popular marketplace and located in the town centre of Poplar. Chrisp Street Market was the UK's first purpose-built pedestrian shopping area. The market, located just off East India Dock Road, features a landmark clock tower, a mix of shops, cafés, pubs, and around 80 market stalls. It also hosts "Bite", a monthly street food market held on the last Friday of each month.
