Situated within the desirable and ever popular locality of Langstone, this beautifully presented Edwardian detached family home is a fantastic example of charming period elegance partnered with tasteful character features. Whilst being instantly captivated by delicately detailed stained glass and decorative storm porch, this property boasts a wealth of character, spacious living accommodation and generous bedroom sizes.

The sitting room boasts an abundance of traditional period features including architraves, delicate bay window detailing and high ceilings. The tasteful decoration has been executed to reflect the property's Edwardian heritage, with bold warm colour schemes evoking a real sense of comfort and presence. Benefiting from an additional versatile reception, complete with traditional fireplace, built-in bookcase with storage and access to the rear garden and patio via double glass doors. The kitchen incorporates traditional in-frame style shaker cabinetry finished with bespoke quartz & solid wood work-surfaces. The space boasts a centralised island and an area of additional continuation of worktop to create a designated breakfast bar. Double glass doors open to the conservatory, flooded with light and boasting the ideal space to relax and appreciate the garden. A downstairs WC is practically located beneath the stairs.

Upstairs, a warm primary bedroom with large bay window evokes calm whilst boasting the addition of a personal shower facility. The second bedroom benefits from built in storage & overlooks the mature garden. The family bathroom has been tastefully modernised whilst reflecting the period charm of the home. Adjacent, a well-presented third bedroom is nestled beautifully into the furthest area of the upstairs, with a few steps down into the space for added character. Bedroom four completes the first floor and currently purposed as a home office.

Externally, established borders, feature pond & seating areas complete the Easterly rear garden.
