OVERVIEW

Positioned on a vast 317-acre footprint, this former Colorado Boys Ranch represents a compelling investment opportunity with built-in infrastructure, historical significance, and expansive development potential. With nearly 50 years of institutional use, the property offers a rare combination of scale, versatility, and existing improvements—ideal for a variety of high-value redevelopment strategies. The site includes over 30 buildings, including 5 bunkhouse-style dormitories, multiple administrative and classroom buildings, workshops, and recreational facilities—all adaptable for immediate re-use or repositioning. Whether your vision includes a residential campus, wellness retreat, specialty school, behavioral health facility, or vocational training center, the groundwork is already in place. Additional on-site amenities—such as a rodeo/equine arena, barns, loafing sheds, basketball court, and baseball/softball fields—further broaden the property’s applicability. Over 250 acres remain undeveloped, offering significant upside for phased expansion, wind and solar energy development, conservation easement opportunities, or alternative land use strategies. This is more than just land—it’s a scalable platform for mission-aligned development, adaptive reuse, or impact-focused investment. Seize the chance to acquire a one-of-a-kind asset with the foundation, flexibility, and acreage to support a wide range of institutional, commercial, or mixed-use visions. The property will be delivered vacant and all furniture/items on the premises will be included in the sale.
