Description

Local builders who have been in the construction industry for over 50 years built Potters Lodge in 2003 to cater for a growing family, a family run business and an overall passion for horses, dogs and everything "country".

Its aesthetically pleasing, Georgian style frontage sits beautifully within the village street scene and internally, the period features continue in the form of moulded cornices and architraves, impressive fireplaces, extensive oak flooring and a lovely turned staircase leading off the light and spacious main entrance hall.

There are no pokey rooms in Potters Lodge with the main hub of the house being a 34' long kitchen/dining/living room with a comprehensive range of solid wood kitchen units, granite worktops, deep Belfast sink and oil fired Aga. At the soft seating end, an impressive fireplace with wood burning stove comes into its own during the cooler months and the more formal sitting rooms both have open fires. Along with four large bedrooms on the first floor, all of which will easily accommodate a king size bed (with plenty of room to spare) there are three en suites plus a stylish house bathroom. There is stacks of easily accessible loft space too.

There is equally as much going on on the outside, with a superbly kept brick set drive and yard providing ample parking and turning space for numerous vehicles, trailers etc. From here there is access to a gated paddock extending to approx 1.7 acres and there are plenty of associated buildings in the form of 4 loose boxes, workshop, car port and a double garage with extensive first floor storage. A south west facing paved terrace creates a lovely place to sit and enjoy the gardens which are mainly lawned with a fine orchard of Bramley apple, pear and plum.

In summary an exceptional family home in a readily accessible, peaceful village setting with plenty of features to satisfy those with a busy, outdoor lifestyle.
