woodburning stove. Upstairs from the original staircase there is a light and bright landing, there are 3 double bedrooms to the front with beautiful views across the fields to the picturesque Eggesford Church. There first bathroom has a separate shower and a very large bath where you can enjoy the views from the side of the house to the forest. The 2nd bathroom has a bath with shower over and there is also a further double bedroom at the back of the house. The heating is from a modern air source heat pump and the property also has an alarm system and solar PV panels which are owned outright.

Outside there is a garden to both sides of the house, laid to lawn with various trees and shrubs, at the top of the garden there is large shed which has a large amount of storage space and a further shed currently used as a log store. Beside the cottages on the other side of the road is a garage that would fit a small car.

Viewers are to be aware that the property is on the A377 and to take care when crossing the road to the property. On the far side of the house is a trainline which is the branch line between Barnstaple and Exeter and has an hourly service with 3 carriages, the train is not a high speed or noisy train.
