CHESTERTONS

This newly refurbished and expanded mews house in Knightsbridge stands out for its exceptional design, generous layout, and abundant natural light.

The renovation was skilfully executed by the esteemed architecture and design firm Echlin, who have created "a broken-plan layout to establish an interior with versatile space, ample natural light, and a strong connection to nature," crafting a residence "suited for the twenty-first century."

Spanning 2400 square feet across three floors, the property offers intelligently designed, spacious living spaces, featuring 'broken-plan' entertaining areas with the main reception room, dining area, and study on the ground floor, while the kitchen and a luxurious sunken seating area occupy the floor below. It further comprises four bedroom suites and an additional staff bedroom as well as an outside terrace.

Located on William Mews, just off Lowndes Square in Knightsbridge, the property enjoys a central position in close proximity to Hyde Park and the many international boutiques and shops along Brompton Road and Sloane Street.
