WHY CALDBECK?

A hidden gem on the northern edge of the Lake District National Park, Caldbeck has a thriving local community and a good range of local village amenities including Pub and shop. The village also has an active social scene and cricket club. Well placed for those wishing to access the Lake District the property is near equidistant to Carlisle, Penrith and Keswick, the village offers the best of rural living yet remains well connected.

ACCOMMODATION

Forming, as the name suggests, part of a former brewery, the property is currently configured in an upside-down layout with the living accommodation, WC and kitchen on the first floor. The ground slopes away at the rear to a large riverside garden. Access to the garden is from one of the two ground floor bedrooms. There is also a bathroom on the ground floor. A side door from the parking area leads into the kitchen, where the stairs to the lower level are also located. Accessed from the rear garden is a large locked store room, which has the potential, subject to obtaining the necessary permissions, to be integrated into the living accommodation. To the far end of the property at road level, is a small lawned garden, but the real highlight is the generous riverside garden to the rear of the property, offering a peaceful southwest facing haven to escape to. The property would benefit from a programme of cosmetic modernisation and represents a superb opportunity to secure a home within a sought-after Lake District village.
