Clayton, Bradford, West Yorkshire, BD14

Clayton is located at about 720 feet (220 m) above sea level at the south end of a relatively flat ridge of land on the south side of Clayton Beck valley. The valley drops steeply below this shoulder of land and rises steeply to the south, south-east and south-west.

The village is three miles from Bradford city centre, with the village of Thornton located on the other side of the valley and the village of Queensbury further up the hill that Clayton is situated on. Clayton Beck runs through the bottom of the valley below Clayton and tributaries for this stream, including Bull Grieve Beck, run through the village.

The centre of the village is designated as a conservation area in 1977. The main street of the village – Clayton Lane – which runs alongside the park, includes several traditional pubs, a popular route for many residents.

Victoria Park, Clayton, offers a variety of uses, a play area with classic play equipment, including a climbing structure, slide roundabout and swings. A well-maintained bowling green and clubhouse. A multi-use sports pitch can be used for various games, including basketball and 5-a-side football. A World War I memorial pays tribute to soldiers who died in the local area in WWI.

Clayton boasts several shops, churches and a nearby golf club and country park at Thornton View with views of the city of Bradford and the village of Thornton across the valley.
