Eden Crewe Road, Hatherton, Nantwich

Stephenson Browne delight in bringing to market this magnificent converted Methodist chapel in glorious Cheshire Countryside! Eden was built in 1850 and enlarged in 1898. It is located in the hamlet of Hatherton, a rural community between Nantwich and Audlem and has been further extended and fully renovated to precise and exacting standards with particular attention paid to retaining the chapel's original architectural features, reflecting its historical significance.

The programme of works to this superb property have been extensive to say the least; the groundworks and engineering involved to create a wonderful family home cannot be overstated. With LVT flooring throughout the ground floor, bespoke and sympathetic double glazing, high end kitchen cabinets with quartz surfaces, stylish bathroom fittings, oak internal doors and porcelain tiles and Cotswold stone externally, it is evident that no expense has been spared to transform this remarkable property.

Upon entering Eden, the proportions of the property will be fully appreciated with over 120 square metres of fabulous accommodation. The most beautiful entrance hall with its vaulted ceiling, showcases the bespoke oak staircase and with glorious chapel windows, the natural light floods in. The incredible open plan kitchen/dining/family room really is the hub of the home and will ensure families stay connected with ample space to relax, dine and entertain. A separate living room affords a place to escape to and the spacious laundry and useful cloakroom/W.C complete the ground floor accommodation. To the first floor, the wonderful galleried landing gives access to all rooms. The principal bedroom has a Juliet balcony which overlooks the rear garden and open countryside and has a stunning en-suite. There are two further double bedrooms and a most stylish family bathroom. Externally, there is ample off road parking and a substantial size rear garden which sits adjacent to open countryside. Must be viewed!
