Fairmont House, School Lane

Summary

Fairmont House is a significantly and sympathetically extended detached family residence providing generously proportioned and light airy accommodation throughout; located on a quintessential country lane and adjoining a 'site of scientific interest' to the left-hand side of the house when viewed from the lane. Occupying an elevated position and approached via a gravelled 'in and out' driveway, the house boasts an open porch, entrance hallway, cloakroom, four spacious reception rooms, a substantial kitchen having a range of high-quality oak units with granite worksurfaces, laundry, five double bedrooms (three with en-suite facilities) and a family bathroom. Externally the charming gardens wrap around three sides of the house with patio areas to the side and rear of the property, being readily accessed from many of the rooms via multiple patio doors together with a well-appointed summer house having light, power and an integral cloakroom.

Location

Hunningham is a charming and highly regarded village of some antiquity being mentioned in the Domesday Book and is surrounded by glorious open countryside. The village lies close by the River Leam and provides ample leisure opportunities including a profusion of rural walks, a local livery and an active cricket club, together with a medieval church and popular riverside gastropub. Hunningham lies some three miles to the north-east of Royal Leamington Spa which provides an
