Location

Clifton Campville is a picturesque village set in the south-east corner of Staffordshire, close to the borders of Derbyshire, Warwickshire and Leicestershire. The property is located along Main Street within this charming rural community, which centres around the magnificent Grade I listed St Andrew's Church. The village also offers a well-regarded primary school, The Green Man public house, a village hall hosting local events, and the attractive Coneyberry Millennium Green, providing open space for recreation. The surrounding countryside is predominantly agricultural, creating a peaceful setting with far-reaching views.
