Clover Cottage, 5 Yonder Street, Hooe Lake, Plymouth, Devon, PL9 9RB

A beautifully restored, Grade II-listed waterside retreat, steeped in history and offering an idyllic setting right on the edge of Hooe Lake in Devon. Built around 1690, the stone cottage exudes quintessential cottage charm and character, with stunning views of the lake and a private waterside garden and pontoon. Nestled directly on the shore of Hooe Lake, a tidal area rich in wildlife and perfect for paddleboarding and kayaking easily accessed by the property's private 10-meter pontoon located at the end of the cottage garden. The lake is privately owned but accessible to the public, and it's designated as a County Wildlife Site. With origins dating back to 1690, the cottage retains many period features, including an inglenook fireplace, wood burner, and whitewashed stone walls. It offers a wonderful blend of history and comfort. The cosy sitting room with a wood burner leads to the kitchen/diner, creating a spacious and inviting area to relax and unwind. The window seat in the sitting room is the perfect spot to enjoy the ever-changing views across the lake or curl up with a book. A peaceful back garden with views across the lake offers a private sun-soaked terrace, while the enclosed waterside gardens are perfect for dining al fresco, enjoying a drink, or simply watching the boats glide by on the water. The property enjoys two bedrooms and a family bathroom.

A 30-minute stroll along the South Coast Path will take you to Mount Batten ferry, offering direct access to Plymouth's historic Barbican district. Here you'll find attractions such as the National Maritime Museum, Plymouth Gin Distillery, and Hoe Park, alongside various pubs, restaurants, and galleries. Located on the South west Coastal Path, Clover Cottage offers easy access to breathtaking views. The South Devon Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty is nearby, providing even more opportunities for outdoor adventures.

Clover Cottage offers the perfect balance of seclusion and convenience and perfect for those seeking a blend of coastal charm and country comfort.

Hooe is a charming and picturesque suburb of Plymstock, nestled within the vibrant city of Plymouth, Devon. With its delightful mix of countryside beauty and easy access to urban amenities, Hooe is the ideal base for exploring South west Devon. Hooe is well-equipped with a local store, a welcoming pub and a children's play area. A short distance away, Elburton offers additional amenities, including a variety of eateries, and even a commercial driving range for golf enthusiasts. The marine city of Plymouth boasts more extensive shopping options and facilities.
