INTRODUCTION

Nestled on the lower slopes of Willett Hill, amidst breath-taking, unspoiled countryside, Truckwell Manor Farm lies in an enviable setting with over 42 acres of its own land. Built in 1870, this charming mid-Victorian stone farmhouse has been thoughtfully modernized while retaining its original character, offering a perfect blend of period elegance and contemporary comfort.

The house is approached over a tree-lined driveway and is surrounded by beautifully preserved outbuildings of the same era, one of which has been converted to an annexe and some featuring distinctive tile roofs and constructed from the striking pink-hued Upper Devonian sandstone, which shifts in tone depending on the sunlight.

The land has been managed for grazing livestock and horses and runs down to a stream which flows along the south-western boundary and beyond its own land, Truckwell Manor Farm enjoys direct access to Forestry Commission land with access to Willett Hill and the historic Willett Tower.

THE HOUSE

Facing southwest, the house enjoys abundant natural light throughout the day, with the main rooms perfectly positioned to take in stunning views over the valley and rolling hills beyond. Lovingly maintained by the current owners, the house is not Listed and true to its Victorian heritage, the interiors feature generously proportioned rooms, high ceilings, and tall windows that flood the accommodation with natural light, creating an inviting and airy atmosphere.

The spacious kitchen / breakfast room and adjoining living room link together to create a fantastic family hub. The kitchen, designed for both practicality and relaxation, features ample space for dining and a seating area, along with French doors which open directly to the garden, while a classic two-oven AGA adds warmth and charm. Doors leading through to a very useful utility and boot room. The two reception rooms include a sitting room and a dining room and ancillary rooms include a laundry and cloakroom with w.c.

On the first floor there are five well-proportioned double bedrooms arranged around a centrally positioned landing, each offering picturesque views of the surrounding countryside. The principal bedroom includes an en-suite bathroom with a connecting door to a separate w.c.

OUTSIDE

To the side of the house is a kitchen garden with growing beds surrounded by lawn and below is a lawn which flanks the tarmac parking area with space for several vehicles. A thoughtfully positioned woodstore at the rear of the house ensures convenient fuel supply for the wood-burners.

THE OUTBUILDINGS

The character of the attractive stone barns has been preserved and they include an L-shaped barn which has been converted for use as an annexe with storage and boasts brick arched window and door openings underneath a clay tile roof. The internal accommodation of the annexe includes a stunning double-height living space with a bedroom and bathroom on the first floor.

Below the house is stone barn used as a garage and store, with a stone lean-to on three sides and on the hillside, accessible via a farm track, lies another stone-built barn with brick-arched openings and spectacular panoramic views over the farmstead and beyond. This building offers potential for alternative uses, subject to planning consent being obtained.

THE LAND

The land is divided into seven well-maintained enclosures of sloping pasture, interspersed with two small areas of woodland and bound by established hedging, native trees, and a gently flowing stream that meanders the full length of the lower boundary of the farm.

Beyond its own land, Truckwell Manor Farm enjoys direct access to Forestry Commission land, further extending its already generous roaming access to Willett Hill and the historic Willett Tower—an unparalleled privilege for lovers of nature and outdoor pursuits.

With its idyllic setting, rich history, and a wealth of possibilities, Truckwell Manor Farm is an extraordinary opportunity to create a bespoke country retreat in one of Somerset's most sought-after locations.
