THE PROPERTY

'The Oceanic' is a substantial 'landmark' building which occupies a commanding and prominent position on the junction of Lansdowne and Melvill Roads, at one of the highest points of this highly sought-after area of Falmouth, where the isthmus is at its narrowest.

Formerly a hotel, the property was extensively modernised and remodelled approximately ten years ago, with planning permission having been granted in December 2021 for the creation of, what are, now, three of Falmouth's largest, best specified and highly individual homes, which all benefit from parking, private garden areas and, from the rear, panoramic, elevated and ever-changing views over the town and harbour to Greenbank, Flushing, Trefusis Headland, the deep sailing waters of the Fal Estuary, and shoreline of The Roseland Peninsula.

SPECIFICATION

'The Oceanic' is now approaching the final stages of conversion with the extensive works including:-

- New roof in natural slate
- Complete external redecoration
- The creation of three separate 'private garden' areas
- The provision of an allocated parking space for each apartment, together with a visitors space
- Massive internal remodelling to produce the three highly individual homes
- The installation of three separate high-efficiency boilers together with independent pressurised hot water systems
- Under-floor heating throughout
- The installation of three brand new kitchens with Samsung appliances and compressed laminate worktops
- Complete internal redecoration
- The fitting of new floor coverings throughout each of the apartments

In addition, all properties are fully double glazed, much internal joinery is oak, light fittings and high quality curtains are included, and in most instances furniture is available if required, subject to negotiation.

THE LOCATION

There are few positions in Falmouth which offer such expansive views of the town, harbour and estuary, combined with such close proximity to the seafront in one direction, and the town centre and harbourside in the other.

A level walk along the seafront leads to the sandy bathing beach at Gyllyngvase, home of Gylly Beach Café, behind which is Queen Mary Gardens, one of Falmouth's numerous sub-tropical public gardens, beyond which the South West Coast Path continues to Swanpool, Maenporth and beyond.

Castle Beach and the seafront (Cliff Road) is just 350 yards away, with the properties enjoying, 'on their doorstep', the beautiful circular walk around Pendennis Point with its views across the mouth of the estuary to St Mawes, the mouth of the Percuil River and St Anthony's Headland, and across the breadth of Falmouth Bay to Swanpool, Maenporth, the mouth of the Helford and shoreline of The Lizard Peninsula - one of the country's most spectacular views.

Public transport facilities are just a stone's throw away, with a regular bus service opposite Lansdowne Road providing easy access around and out of the town, in addition to which railway halts at the foot of Lansdowne and Melvill Roads, provide regular, direct and easy access to the university at Penryn and the cathedral city of Truro, the county's administrative, commercial, retailing, health and educational centre.

Events Square, just a seven minute walk away, provides a number of bars, restaurants and convenience store, as well as the National Maritime Museum, one of the county's foremost attractions. Sailing and dinghy launching facilities are accessible from the public slipway next door to Events Square, beyond which Arwenack and Church Streets lead directly into the town centre, with its abundance of shops, leisure amenities and points of access onto and around the harbour, such as Customs House Quay and Prince of Wales Pier, from where picturesque ferry rides lead to Flushing, St Mawes, Trelissick and Truro.

In all, a location which, anywhere in the county, is difficult to better.

THE ACCOMMODATION - APARTMENT 3
