THE PROPERTY

'Tresooth Cottage' was built, we understand circa 1906 but was substantially extended approximately thirty years ago by previous owners., a well known local gardening family, who occupied the property for approaching forty years.

Now benefiting from replacement uPVC double glazing, economic electric heating with supplementary solar panelling and feed-in tariff, the characterful accommodation retains the original high ceilings, fireplaces now with glass-fronted log-burners, and an attractive outlook from all rooms over the beautifully stocked surrounding gardens to countryside beyond.

The extension has an independent access from the side parking area to provide, we understand, independent access for the previous owners who used the extension as a source of letting income. Equally, these rooms are ideal for a relative or visiting friends etc, as well as for easy integration into the main accommodation if preferred.

THE GARDENS

These are a particular feature of the property, completely level, backing onto unspoilt farmland, but incredibly well enclosed by a granite retaining wall along the length of the road frontage, mature hedging and beautiful trees including oaks, sycamore and ash etc. A large gravelled parking area is sufficient for numerous vehicles, in addition to which there is a detached timber-built double garage, to the rear of which there is a large workshop/store. Other buildings include a block-built partially enclosed store to the rear of the house, aluminium framed greenhouse, 48' (14.63m) polytunnel and timber store (in need of some repair, together with the workshop) which occupies a lovely glade-like setting close to the eastern boundary, near a stream.

The gardens provide an abundance of variety and colour with many magnificent, mature, colourful flowering shrubs and plants including camellias, rhododendrons, cherry tree, azaleas and hydrangeas etc. Formal garden areas have level shaped lawns, one of which has a central rockery-edged pond. A well enclosed kitchen garden area contains fruit trees, large vegetable patch, the polytunnel, and a spring with pump used for the garden during particularly dry spells.

THE LOCATION

'Tresooth Cottage' is just a few hundred yards from Argal Reservoir, around which there is a picturesque circular walk. The nearby village of Mawnan Smith offers excellent day-to-day amenities including sports clubs, a highly regarded county primary school, church, convenience stores, public house, craft shops, and doctors surgery. Just beyond the village is the picturesque waterside hamlet of Durgan, internationally renowned sub-tropical gardens at Trebah and Glendurgan, safe bathing beaches, clifftop walks along Cornwall's South West Coast Path, as well as the safe day-sailing waters of the Helford River, immortalised by Daphne du Maurier in 'Frenchmans Creek'.

The outskirts of the port of Falmouth are less than two miles distant, the university campus at Tremough is within two and a half miles, with the A39 providing direct and easy access to the cathedral city of Truro just ten miles away.
