There are homes that simply house us and then there are homes that embrace us. Far View Barn is undoubtedly the latter. Set along a peaceful lane amid the open skies of the Cambridgeshire Fens, this striking, architect-designed residence pairs cutting-edge sustainability with natural serenity, delivering a lifestyle few properties can match.

Completed in 2017 and designed by Swann Edwards Architecture, this exceptional home is officially certified as a Passive House, a rare accolade reflecting its superior insulation, triple glazing, air-source heat pump, MVHR system, and photovoltaic panels. The result? A calm, cocooning atmosphere that the current owners describe as “a house that hugs you.”

From the moment you step inside, there’s a tangible sense of warmth, peace, and thoughtful intention. The main residence offers five bedrooms across two light-filled floors. The heart of the home is a vast open-plan kitchen, dining and living space where clean-lined cabinetry in soft duck-egg blue contrasts beautifully with oak-lined drawers and sleek integrated appliances. Large-format glazing on three sides blurs the boundaries between inside and out, with sliding doors opening onto an elegant veranda and a lush, south-facing garden. A separate snug, utility room, boot room and cloakroom round out the ground floor.

Upstairs, the principal suite is a sanctuary in its own right - cathedral ceilings, a gabled glass wall, and a private balcony offer uninterrupted views across the Fens. Four further bedrooms (one en-suite) are arranged around a generous landing, perfect for family life or visiting guests.

There is a view from every window which mesmerises you, you can look in all directions and capture the moment of nature.

Set slightly apart, the two-bedroom annexe mirrors the style and quality of the main house and offers fantastic flexibility as guest accommodation, multi-generational living, or even a stylish home office or studio.

Outside, Far View Barn sits in just over an acre (STMS) of beautifully landscaped grounds. Mown paths weave between wildflower meadows, orchard trees and raised beds. Pear, walnut, fig, cherry and sweet chestnut trees offer seasonal delights, while birdsong and rustling leaves form the backdrop to daily life. A large outbuilding and carport add practicality to this dreamlike setting.

Tucked away in the welcoming village of Gorefield - with a local butcher, pub, Post Office and primary school - you're also only minutes from Wisbech's elegant Georgian architecture and artisan cafés. Cambridge, Ely, and the North Norfolk coast are all within easy reach, with fast train links to London via nearby Peterborough. In the owner's words: "The tranquillity and wildlife here are amazing. Once you've lived in a Passive House, there's no going back."

Moving here gave us a much slower pace of life. The tranquillity is incredible, and we feel very privileged to be surrounded by such amazing wildlife.

VILLAGE CHARM IN THE HEART OF THE FENS

Set amid the wide skies and fertile landscapes of the Cambridgeshire Fens, Gorefield is a welcoming rural village that offers a peaceful pace of life with a strong sense of community. Surrounded by open countryside and rich farmland, it's the kind of place where neighbours know each other, children can play safely, and life feels just that little bit more grounded.

The village itself is well-served for its size, with a popular primary school, a well-used village hall, a recreation ground, and a friendly local pub. There's a real community spirit here, supported by regular events, local clubs, and a commitment to preserving village life.

Just a short drive away is the historic market town of Wisbech, often referred to as the 'Capital of the Fens'. With its Georgian architecture, independent shops, supermarkets, schools, and health services, Wisbech provides all the essentials - and a bit of character too. The town also has a rich cultural scene, including museums, galleries, and annual festivals.

Gorefield's location also offers excellent links to the wider region. King's Lynn and Peterborough are both within easy reach by road, offering access to national rail services and a broader range of shopping, dining, and entertainment.

Nature lovers will appreciate the surrounding landscape, a haven for walkers, cyclists, and birdwatchers. The nearby Nene Washes and Welney Wetland Centre offer beautiful spots to explore, while the flat fenland terrain makes for easy-going strolls and long views.

Gorefield is a place where the simple things take centre stage.
