An opportunity to purchase a delightful, three bedroom mid terrace cottage of immense charm and character in the rural village of Breage.

Situated in the popular Cornish village of Breage is this delightful, three bedroom mid terrace cottage of immense charm and character. The residence, which benefits from majority LPG central heating and double glazing, boasts many character features from beamed ceilings to an impressive fireplace with partially exposed stone walls housing a wood burner.

The beautifully presented property provides well proportioned accommodation whilst, to the outside, is a generous front garden which is mainly laid to lawn; has a patio area and well established plants and shrubs. To the rear of the residence is a pleasant courtyard. Parking is provided for a number of vehicles.

In brief, the accommodation comprises a characterful lounge/diner inner hallway, whilst to the rear in what we are advised is a single block flat roof extension there is a kitchen/diner, study/bedroom three, utility room and a shower room. On the first floor is a landing and two bedrooms.

The village of Breage itself provides many local amenities including a post office with shop, public house, primary school and a church called St. Breaca dedicated to the Irish saint from which the village derives its name. The nearby coastal village of Porthleven is a short distance drive away with its picturesque Cornish fishing harbour acting as a focal point with many restaurants, pubs, shops and galleries nestled around it. The nearby market town of Helston provides more extensive amenities including national stores, cinema, sports centre with indoor swimming pool, supermarkets and both primary and secondary schooling.
