Bridge House Station Road, Brough HU15 1EA
Offers Over £499,850

- Interesting and characterful four bedroom house
- Great flexibility of living space
- 0.25 acre plot
- Convenient for the mainline railway station
- Beautifully renovated and remodelled
- Large summerhouse with bar
- Electric gates and extensive secure parking
- Council tax band D
- EPC rating D

An enchanting and characterful period house in a unique location convenient for Brough's mainline railway station. Situated on a beautiful quarter acre plot and accessed down a private gravelled driveway through electric gates, the house has a superb peaceful feel which belies its position in the centre of "old" Brough.

The layout, which extends over three floors, provides for great flexibility of living space and the property has been lovingly updated boasting a fabulous, contemporary styled, open plan living dining kitchen to the ground floor with further sitting room to the first floor. Currently offering four bedrooms but with a layout which could be remodelled to five bedrooms if required, the property also has the addition of a fabulous garden building which incorporates bar and entertaining area. Within the grounds the extensive driveway provides for secure parking with the addition of a further garage/store.

LOCATION

As the name suggests, the property is located in a unique position backing onto the road bridge on Saltgrounds Road. This unique position at the end of Station Road is especially convenient for the railway station. Access is gained to the house via a gravelled driveway (which belongs to the property) and which leads up to the electric gates. The gravelled driveway lies adjacent to Orchard Mews.
