A uniquely designed bungalow built as the Architect's own residence and providing substantial and flexibly laid out accommodation. Being ahead of its time when constructed, and having been lovingly updated since it was built, this beguiling property offers huge potential.

Situated on a generously sized plot which approaches a quarter of an acre, the property is located in one of the most sought after areas of this large and well serviced village, ideal for the major road and rail network (the station lying very close by).

Perhaps requiring some modernisation, or reinstating as a fabulous retro project, the footprint of the bungalow could allow development to a house (subject to the necessary permissions)

Offered to the market with no onward chain, viewing of this property is highly recommended.

LOCATION

The property is located on the North-Western side of Southfield in this premium location on the Western side of Hessele and close to the railway station. Southfield is approached either off Woodfield Lane (from the major road network) or from Station Road (from the centre of Hessele).
