SITUATION

Thursley is an enchanting Surrey village, perfectly positioned just outside Godalming, offering a rare combination of timeless heritage and exceptional natural beauty. At its heart lies St Michael & All Angels Church, with Saxon origins, while the surrounding lanes are lined with period cottages and elegant country homes. With a thriving local community, excellent connections via the nearby A3, and an enduring sense of rural seclusion, Thursley represents the very best of Surrey countryside living.

There is an outstanding selection of schools in the area, including Cranleigh School in Cranleigh, Aldro in Shackleford, King Edward's and Barrow Hills in Witley, Royal Grammar School and Tormead in Guildford, and St Hilary's, Prior's Field, Charterhouse, all in Godalming. Godalming Sixth Form College also has an excellent reputation.

Thursley is centred around a picturesque village green, village hall, playground, and a traditional pub. At its heart lies Thursley Common, a nationally designated nature reserve and SSSI, offering expansive heathland, woodland and wetlands, ideal for walking, cycling and horse riding. The village enjoys a rural setting within the rolling landscapes of the Surrey Hills, while remaining conveniently accessible to nearby towns such as Godalming, Haslemere, and Farnham. These towns provide an extensive range of amenities, including high-quality high street and independent shops, supermarkets, popular cafés, restaurants, pubs and bars, as well as excellent leisure facilities, including tennis and golf clubs, leisure centres and hotels with spa facilities.
