The garden is private, peaceful, and has not just a lawn area for little ones to run around, and a growing area for keen gardeners, but a spacious seating area, through the French Doors, for chilling round your fire pit. To the front, the driveway can accommodate multiple cars for off road parking. However there is always ample on street parking for visitors, as it's a quiet area.

The neighbours are wonderful people, and the sense of community on the street is not found in central Chapel A - but you'll have to come and feel that vibe for yourselves when you book a viewing. This one will not stick around, and the current owners have been happy here for 14 years.
