WHAT THE AGENT SAYS

More than one generation living under the same roof is a growing trend, but whilst elderly relatives moving in with family might not be a new phenomenon, adult children staying at home for longer, or moving back home with their parents after university, is on the rise.

For many, multigenerational living provides a solution to a shortage in affordable housing and high rental costs and according to the Office for National Statistics, the number of young adults aged 20 to 34 in the UK sharing a home with their parents remains at its highest for over 20 years.

SITUATION & AREA AWARENESS

The pretty village of Cowden is about 1 mile distant with St Mary's Church, village hall, and 'The Fountain' public house. Hartfield is 4 miles and Forest Row is 6 miles away, offering local amenities including shops and restaurants. The M25 junction 6 is about 13 miles to the north, central London is only 35 miles and for the international traveller Gatwick Airport is about 15 miles distant.
