Located near the heart of the beautiful Regency town of Sidmouth on the Jurassic Coast of East Devon, this property offers excellent access to the town's main amenities and conservation area. It is within easy walking distance of the swimming pool, seafront, and town centre.

Constructed with rendered and hanging tile elevations under a tiled roof, the property is currently divided into two apartments, one on each floor. Subject to the necessary consents and alterations, it could be converted into a superb single residence.

Well-presented and offered with no onward chain, the property features a fitted kitchen, a spacious open-plan living room extending from front to back and centred on a fireplace, two generously sized dual-aspect bedrooms, and a family bathroom on each floor. A fantastic south-facing balcony overlooks the gardens towards the sea.

Accessed via a short shared lane, the property provides parking for several vehicles and includes a lawned area. The well-landscaped south-facing rear gardens are private, featuring mature trees, tall hedges, and fencing. Several small sheds are also present.

Services include mains water, drainage, electricity, and gas, with an easement for retained services. Standard, superfast, and ultrafast broadband are available, and mobile signal coverage is provided by O2, EE, Three, and Vodafone (Ofcom). Please note that the property is situated in a flood risk zone, although it has not flooded.
