Ruardean is a village located in the Forest of Dean district of Gloucestershire. It is situated in the western part of the Forest of Dean, approximately 5 miles (8 kilometres) west of the town of Cinderford.

The village offers a range of amenities to cater to the needs of its residents. These include a GP surgery, primary school, a village hall, and a church. Ruardean features a mix of traditional stone cottages, newer residential properties, and a few local businesses. The village has a strong sense of community, and various community events and activities are organised throughout the year.

The village has a rich mining heritage, with coal mining being a significant part of its history. While the mining industry has declined, Ruardean still retains remnants of its industrial past, including old mine workings and mining-related structures.
