A three bedroom property with master en-suite, open plan living space and a conservatory, is delightfully situated within the village conservation area. A single storey extension, built in red brick under a slate roof, constructed 2003 is designed as a ground floor bedroom/en-suite whilst adaptable for family living space or a home office. The central heating is oil fired, and the property has uPVC double glazed windows.

The accommodation, in summary, provides, on the ground floor, a conservatory, living room dining area, kitchen, utility room, master bedroom one, and en-suite. The first floor provides a galleried landing, two double sized bedrooms and a bathroom. Outside there is a driveway entrance to the property, garden and paved areas. A small outhouse closet.

Carlton-on-Trent is a small settlement surrounding Carlton Hall and St Mary's Church. The Spinney and Windmill are notable properties within the vicinity of this rather quaint village. There are pleasant walks and lanes to the River Trent-side areas. The larger settlement of Sutton-on-Trent is within two miles and here there is a good primary school, Co-operative store, delicatessen, hairdressers and local services. There are regular bus services to Newark, Tuxford and Retford. and school buses to the Academy schools in both Grantham and Tuxford. Newark is six miles and the area is convenient for commuting to Nottingham, Lincoln and further north to Sheffield and Doncaster. Newark is on the main East Coast railway line with services to London King's Cross, Leeds and Edinburgh. There are rail service connections also from Newark Castle station to Lincoln and Nottingham.

The property has been exceptionally well maintained. The original cottage has early 19th Century characteristics, constructed with rendered elevations under a Welsh slate roof. Alterations, and a substantial single storey extension, were constructed in 2003 with conservation brick elevations under a slate roof. The property has a field gate entrance, a private drive and stands in a pleasant corner of the village.
