GARDENS

From the roadside there is a driveway providing off street parking which extends along the front of the property. The driveway also extends along the left hand side of the property under the carport which provides additional parking and access to the garage. The front garden is laid to lawn and enclosed by hedging and double timber gates to the roadside.

To the rear of the property there is a beautifully maintained garden which is mainly laid to lawn with a Yorkshire stone seating area, a raised fish pond with water feature and a timber pergola. Views to the front over open countryside.

The rear garden adjoins open fields, and this is the interesting part, the moat which you can see from the first floor windows is the former grounds of the medieval village and is all that remains of the medieval manor house of John de Houke, whose forebears had come over with William the Conqueror. This is supposedly the oldest part of Goole.
