A standout Corringham Road corner-plot home boasting impressive frontage and huge extension potential, offering buyers a rare chance to create a truly personalised dream property in a superb, well-connected SS17 location.

Stepping onto this generous corner-plot gem on Corringham Road feels like stepping straight into the pilot episode of your own home-renovation series. The impressive wrap-around frontage sets the tone immediately — bold, spacious, and begging for a wide-angle Instagram story.

Inside, the home features both a separate lounge and dining room, giving you flexibility in how you shape the space. Prefer an extra bedroom? With a clever reconfiguration, this could easily become a three-bedroom property, unlocking even more value for up-sizers and creative renovators.

Head out back and you'll discover the wildcard: an extended rear-garden workshop — perfect for makers, creators, crafters, or anyone whose hobbies require space (or noise!). It's the sort of feature that makes your friends ask, "Wait... how much potential does this place have?"

Combine that with the significant extension potential (STPP) around the generous corner plot and you've got a property that's less "house" and more "opportunity with a postcode." Whether your vibe is #RenovationJourney or #FutureProofLiving, this is a rare find ready for a visionary.

Stanford-le-Hope is a well-connected Essex town popular with commuters and families. It offers direct c2c rail services to London Fenchurch Street (around 45–50 minutes), good road access via the A13 and M25, and a mix of flats, family houses and newer developments. The area benefits from local shops, schools and green spaces, with a quieter, community-focused feel while remaining close to Basildon, Grays and Lakeside for wider amenities.
