LOCATION

Llanbedr is an attractive, unspoilt village situated between Barmouth and Harlech on the stunning Cambrian Coastline. Sitting alongside the pretty River Artro, Llanbedr was originally a slate mining village nestled between the mountains and the sea. The village, which uphold community living, is just a mile from the picturesque estuary of the River Artro at Llandanwg and waterfalls are a few minutes walk from the village centre.

Walkers, birdwatchers, cyclists and climbers love the local natural scenery.

Llanbedr boasts three pub serving excellent food and drink in a welcoming and relaxed family and dog friendly environment, a grocery store, gift shop, delicatessen/café, church, primary and pre school, and hairdresser within the village. Royal St Davids Links golf course is just a couple of miles away in Harlech, as is the UNESCO world heritage Harlech castle and white sands of Harlech beach.

For traditional seaside attractions and larger grocery stores, Barmouth and Porthmadog can both be found less than 20 minutes away by car.
