SELLER INSIGHT

“ We were initially drawn to this home because of its riverside location, decent plot size, and close proximity to Stratford-upon-Avon town centre,” say the current owners. This property offers the perfect blend of convenience and natural beauty.

The standout feature of this home is undoubtedly its closeness to the river. “Being so close to the river is our favourite aspect of the home,” the owners emphasize. The serene views from the balcony or jetty, whether day or night, are truly mesmerizing. “At any time of night or day, watching the river flow while the trees and leaves blow is always a beautiful calming sight.”

The house itself is a unique blend of traditional and contemporary materials, designed for comfort and aesthetic appeal. “The individual design and mix of traditional and contemporary materials make the house unique and inviting,” they explain. The layout maximizes views of the river and the nature reserve, enhancing the sense of tranquillity within.

Reflecting on their time living here, the owners share their experience of transforming the property. “We lived in the original (now demolished) cabin during Covid lockdown, which gave us a real-life experience of waterside living. This enabled us to design Birgan Lodge, while living in situ, which helped us to maximize the plot’s unique characteristics and use biophilic design to nestle the house within its naturalistic surroundings.”

Outdoor spaces have been crafted to suit both relaxation and entertainment. “The outside decked areas and garden have been designed to enjoy calm tranquillity or party fun and water sports,” they note. This versatility makes the outdoor spaces perfect for various activities and gatherings.

The sense of community in the area is also a highlight. “The neighbours are all warm, friendly, and helpful people,” say the owners, adding to the welcoming atmosphere of the neighbourhood.

For those who enjoy an active lifestyle, the location is ideal. “We enjoy water sports and have a speedboat, kayak, and paddle board. The property also has mooring and fishing rights, and there are two golf courses nearby,” the owners mention, highlighting the variety of recreational options available.

The convenience of the location extends to excellent amenities. “The area offers excellent local schools, wonderful restaurants and pubs, a theatre, a nature reserve, beautiful walks, two golf courses, and a river taxi,” the owners highlight. Additionally, the easy access to the M40 ensures connectivity to broader regions.

Their advice to future residents is simple yet profound: “Get ready to live every day amongst nature!” This home offers a lifestyle deeply connected to the natural beauty surrounding it, making it a truly special place to call home.*

As the private plot is protected by a surrounding tall wall of greenery, the front Steel/Timber pergola and both planting ledges have been designed and planted to enhance the Biophilic (set-within-nature) feel, which will shroud and hang from those features as the plants mature.

The jetty has its own power with hot & cold-water supply. There is also a sewage outlet making it possible to moor a mini-barge or boat alongside which could be used as a fifth bedroom/home office positioned on the water.

To the front and rear there are external hardwood staircases constructed with anti-slip composite Millboard treads. There are 2 moorings in total, one via the jetty and one via the grass.
