Description

Grayling is a detached stone built property that stands in the middle of its generous plot. Thought to have been built in the 1990's, this building was last used by a local family trust to provide care provision within the community. As a result, currently, the ground floor accommodation has a layout that facilitates this with generously sized wet rooms, wider door ways and single level accesses. However it is likely that with some adaptations and reconfigurations the property could become a significantly sized family home or sizeable bungalow.

The accommodation offers a dining kitchen with separate utility room and a sitting room with double doors that open out onto a decked patio. Currently there are five bedrooms, although these might readily be combined to offer three more generously proportioned doubles. There is a wet room off the main entrance hall, a separate cloakroom and an en suite wet room to one of the other bedrooms.

Outside there is a hard standing drive that provides parking for multiple vehicles as well as a double garage. The South facing garden is accessed through a wooden picket fence and is down mostly to lawn with some shrub and herbaceous borders.
