THE DETAIL

abbotFox Bespoke presents The Old Ale House, a lovingly restored period village home with a beautiful two storey barn.

The house and barn were subject to major renovation completed by the current owners. The remarkable execution of the renovation demonstrates an intimate understanding of the building, whilst modern material touches bring a sophisticated contemporary aesthetic.

The property and barn are established holiday lets, posing an opportunity for significant rental income.

The beautifully presented accommodation is incredibly versatile and briefly comprises; a stunning, practical yet sociable kitchen family room, games room, inviting sitting room and a formal dining room. A further light filled reception room overlooks the rear courtyard and provides access to a bedroom, kitchen and shower room. An additional shower room is also found on the ground floor adjacent to the kitchen family room.

The first floor provides three bedrooms with an en-suite shower room to the principal bedroom, and a family bathroom off landing.

Crossing the courtyard there is a detached garage and access through to The Barn, an impressive two storey, conversion complete with a contemporary open plan kitchen living space, shower room and first bedroom with mezzanine.

Outside there is an extensive, private courtyard lending well to eating, drinking and socialising with friends and family.

To the rear of The Barn features an intimate courtyard.

Parking for several vehicles is provided.

Lyng is a sought after village just 13 miles west of Norwich. There is a village shop, tea room and The Fox public house which serves food also. The village also offers a well regarded Primary school and sits within the sought after Reepham High School catchment.

The market town of Reepham is within easy reach and offers a number of amenities with Norwich only a 20 minute drive away with its vast facilities, an international airport and train station with regular services to London
