DESCRIPTION

White Cottages is constructed of brick with pebbled dashed elevations under a tiled roof and stands nicely back from the road, approached over a gravel drive. This stylish home combines all the key elements of its original age of construction with parquet woodblock floors, entrance door, pine internal doors, picture rails and brick fireplaces. It now requires updating but because of its location and the size of rear garden any improvements or indeed, enlargement would, in our opinion, be well worth while.

A key feature is the South West facing rear garden that extends to about 150 feet and has been well nurtured over the years. The rear boundary adjoins open countryside so the views are terrific.

This is a rare buying opportunity with no ongoing chain, that comes to the market for the first time in 30 years.
