Local Area & Historical Fact

Local Area and Historical Facts

On the doorstep of Oak Moor Farm are the local villages of Grindon and Butterton, within easy access to Thors Cave, Manifold Valley and Alton Towers whilst also on the edge of the Derbyshire Dales.

Built in 1782, The Black Lion is at the heart of Butterton and boasts real olde world charm. On glorious sunny days, bikes are set to one side while cyclists sit in the large beer garden to enjoy refreshments; come the winter months, customers are more likely to crowd around the warmth of the pub's old range.

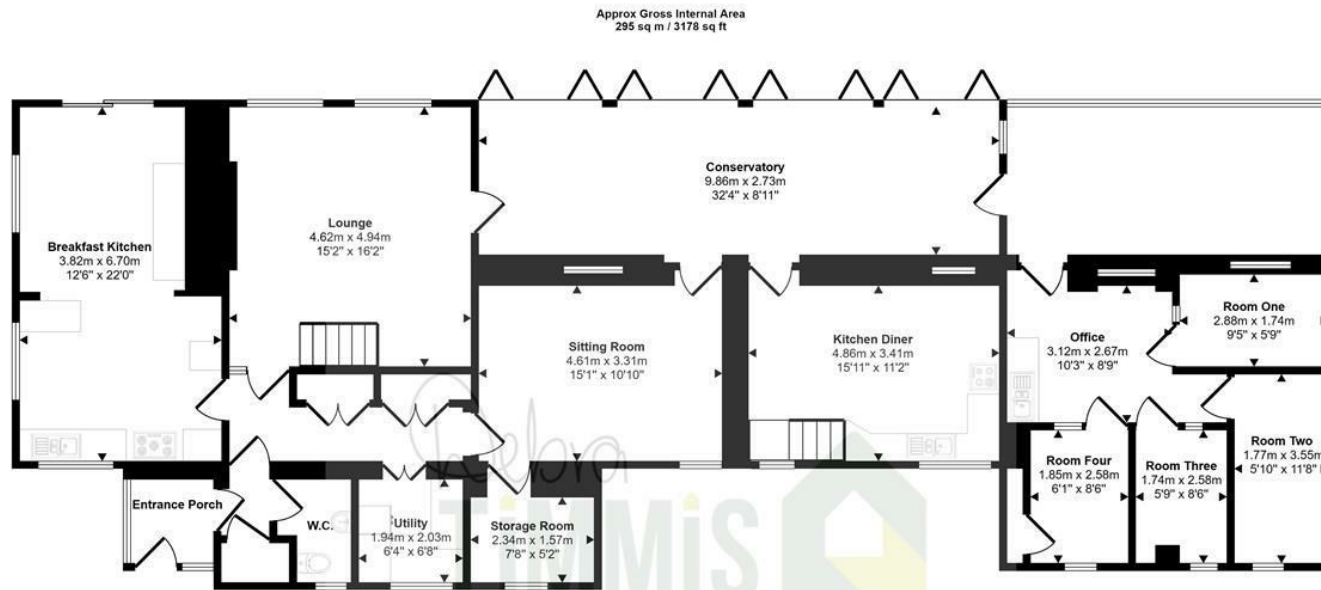

St Bartholomew's Church is a Grade II-listed building built in 1871. The Church has an imposing spire that dominates the local landscape.

Another little-known fact is that Butterton is Staffordshire's only 'Doubly Thankful Village', so-called because all the men from the parish returned safely from both the First and Second World Wars.

Situated north of Grindon Village, there is a memorial for a Halifax aircraft that crashed on Grindon Moor on 13 February 1947. Six RAF men died in the crash; the Halifax bomber was bringing relief to the stricken and remote village during the great blizzard of 1947.
