Nestled in the heart of the Isle of Wight's most unspoiled countryside, this stunning period cottage offers a rare chance to embrace rural living with character, charm, and a true connection to nature. Just a short stroll from the breathtaking South West coastline and the iconic Military Road, the home is perfectly placed for exploring coastal paths, secret bays, and sweeping countryside views.

This quintessential thatched cottage is surrounded by beautifully tended gardens—an ideal canvas for green-fingered buyers. The grounds provide a vibrant display of colour and texture through the seasons, while practical additions like parking for three vehicles offer convenience with potential for more if needed.

Inside, the home is as welcoming as it is characterful. Original period features and rustic charm abound, from exposed beams to the impressive inglenook fireplace with a preserved bread oven in the cosy sitting room. The spacious open-plan kitchen/dining area forms the heart of the home and flows into a light-filled conservatory that overlooks the garden, creating a perfect space for entertaining or relaxing.

Upstairs, two delightful bedrooms continue the home's traditional feel and are served by a well-appointed family bathroom. Every corner of this home reflects a deep respect for its heritage while offering comfortable, practical living for modern needs.

Located close to the friendly village of Niton, the popular Wight Mouse Inn, and just 15 minutes from Newport, this cottage offers peace and seclusion without sacrificing everyday essentials.

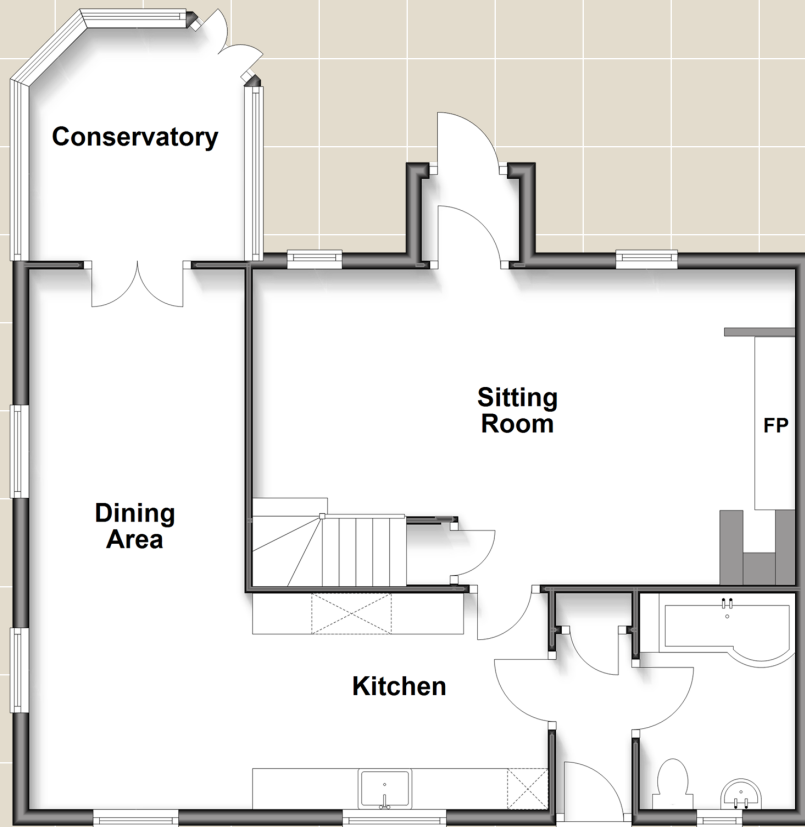

Whether you're seeking a full-time residence, a country escape, or a lifestyle change, this truly special home delivers charm, history, and an unrivalled connection to the Island's most beautiful landscapes.
