Thought to be dating from 1881 is this unique former preparatory school, formally known as Field School and Penarth Lodge School. Offering a great potential for reconfiguration and improvement. It is a rather lovely project. The property is set in mature gardens, facing south at the rear, good off road parking and garage. The house maintains its original layout, the original shutters dividing the school hall into three rooms remain inside the stud partitioning. Comprises central hallway, two reception rooms with original ceilings, galleried library to main living room, second reception room/dining room could be an additional third bedroom with its original vaulted ceiling, two large double bedrooms, kitchen/breakfast room, utility area and bathroom. The property was extended a number of years ago which is accessed from the principal living room it leads to a additional home office and bathroom, further steps then lead down to a cellar. Freehold.

Additional Information/History
The 1800's and 1890's saw a period of huge population growth in Penarth and independent schools were established to meet the needs of the wealthy. What is now '31 Archer Road' was originally a small preparatory school for boys established by H Field. Over the years it has been known as 'Fields School' and 'Penarth Lodge School'. We have a copy of the original architect plans showing the classrooms, the teacher's office and the toilets and changing rooms. The house maintains its original layout. The original shutters dividing the school hall into three rooms remain inside the internal walls. Under the wallpaper on the fireplace breast are painted names of boys who attended the school and went on to attend prestigious educational establishments. These include Cathedral schools and Cadetships with the Royal Navy. We understand that the boys lodged in one of the largest houses opposite the school.
