Summary of features

- Substantial detached building currently comprising three individual units
- Outstanding setting next to village church in an elevated and commanding position
- Standing in over  $\frac{3}{4}$  acre
- No onward chain

Asking price £850,000

Situation:

The property can be found in the rural village of Orcop next to Orcop Church. The outstanding rural area is at the bottom of a shallow valley enjoying a fine rural outlook in almost every direction.

Orcop itself has a public house, village hall and is well placed for the A466 towards Monmouth, Hereford and Ross-on-Wye. At Ross-on-Wye there are connections to the M50 heading towards the Midlands.

There are a number of attractive countryside walks immediately from the property. Hereford can be found 10 miles to the north, Monmouth 9 miles to the south and Ross-on-Wye 10 miles to the east.

Description:

As a single unit, School House is a commanding, detached period former school which has been divided into three individual residential units. The former Master's House is called School House and the former school building itself is split into School Court and School Lodge.

There is a substantial tarmac drive accessed from the country lane which runs alongside the church and splits into two separate driveways.

The gardens are set in two tiers one of which is level and surrounds the house, the other gently slopes away from the building and overlooks adjacent countryside.

Services:

Mains water and electricity, private drainage and oil central heating.

Tenure:
