GENERAL COMMENTS

Trevarth Villa is an attractive former Mine Captain's residence, thought by the vendors to have been built around 1800 and standing amidst level gardens of approaching 0.5 acre. The handsome south facing façade has been restored to mellow coloured exposed granite in conjunction with a significant renovation programme to create a stylish family home.

The location is very pleasant and whilst very convenient for swift commuting to Truro and Falmouth it is also within easy reach of the north Cornish Coast. The house is very well presented and retains many character features including exposed beams and inglenook fireplace in the breakfast room. It has been extended substantially at the side creating a superb sitting room which enjoys fine views over the gardens, there is huge potential to enlarge further if required (subject to planning). The accommodation includes four bedrooms and bathroom on the first floor with kitchen/breakfast room, dining room, snug/study and large sitting room downstairs. All of the windows are double glazed. Further to the existing accommodation there is lapsed planning permission for a single story ground floor extension to add a w/c, utility and kitchen extension. This displays the huge potential to increase the size of Trevarth, subject to an individuals requirements and consent. The gardens are a real feature of the property, perfect for energetic children and enjoy a sunny aspect. A large detached outbuilding is perfect for those looking to work from home, wanting a gym/hobby room but also has potential for additional accommodation/holiday let. There is lots of parking and an attractive stone garage/outbuilding.
